THE FUTURE OF CANADA. Going through the colonies in order Sir Charles has much that is interesting and something that is new of all and each of them. Of the North American Dominion he says:-"That Canada a prosperous future before her there can be no doubt. Of all the lands under a temperate climate, to which British emigrants question as coaling stations; would determine can go, North America is by far the most accessible, and until that continent is completely filled it is unlikely that in great numbers they will go elsewhere. The Argentine Republic is farther off, and is a land of Spanish and Italian speech; and South Africa has been too largely peopled by Dutch and natives; while Australia is still more distant. Canada, like the United States, tempts the immigrant by free grauts of land; and in the north-west, as we have seen, no clearing is required; so that the intending immigrant has, as compared with those who go to other parts of the globe, the theapest journey, and the least expenditure to face when he arrives at his journey's and. The immigrants are still too few, but they soon multiply, for Canada produces men on the scale on which she produces timber, and the ( anadian population increases by natural growth at a wonderfully rapid rate. Of five millions of people in Canada, four millions are Canadian born-s very different state of things from that which we shall find existing in Australia. On the other hand, while Australia is a land almost certain to be free from the scourge of war, in North America we have to face the fact that there are between the people of our own race, established to the north and to the

THE EIGHT HOUR DAY. There is much in the book on the labour question and social logislation in Australia which i very opportune The Victorians, the author points out, are very much opposed to lainers faire: There is no general dishelief in the colony in the principle of interfering with individual liberty for the purpose of obtaining such a reform of hours as would be suitable to the great majority of the people. For many years the custom of Victoria has imposed with the force of law the eight-hour limitation upon the labour on other days. There is a tendency new to apply the eight-hour day to the five days a making up for the short day by longer labour upon the others. The well-organized trades, such as the carpenters, plasterers, and masons, have taken step in this direction, -one trade offering to sambit to a slight decrease of pay for the Satarday, while in most cases, however, the demand is for full pay for the Saturday, at though for three hours less of work, and some Victorian workmen now enjoy the forty-five-A FEDERAL AGE.

Sir Charles Dilke is, as we know, a great admirer of Federal institutions :- " " Our own has been a federal age. The year 1865 saw the adoption of the system I have described; 1870 the creation, in the German Empire, of the strongest federal system of the Continent of Europe; 1874 the adoption in Switzerland of a federal Constitution greatly improved over that of 1848. In 1885 was laid the foundation of the edifice of Australasian federation, while portions of our West Indian Crown colonies have recently. been brought together under similar systems; and in South Africa alone of the countries in which have been conquered in Canada by federation are greater than those which the founders of the Constitution of the United tered by the Cauadian Confederation is as extensions the territory now ruled from Washborder. On the other hand, the very fact of the existence of the United States, in its enormous power, upon the Canadian frontier, has furnished city Treaty at a moment when many Americans stated, however, that there may be exposed rocks in were expecting application for admission to the

Mr. Seeley has written of England proving 'able to do what the United States does so easily, that is, hold together in a federal union countries very remote from each other.' But the territories of the United States, with the exception of Alaska, which has no population, are contiguous territories; and even Professor Seoley seems inclined to 'exclude British Empire of the future will be far stronger than what he calls the conglomeration of races 'which we call Russia.' But the vast majority of the people of Russia speak one tongue, and the Russian territories are contiguous I, too, think that the British Empire of the future will be stronger than even the Russian Empire, powerful as that is; but its strength will not be promoted by attempts to force the Australian colonies into an imperial union January 30th that they continue to receive for which they are not prepared. The great question arises: Is coal likely to be found in the island? From a thirty years' experience of rocks, both practically and theoretically, and in many countries, we most distinctly say, in all human probability, it will, but whether thick enough or good enough to work no personcan tell. That coal of good quality has been victory of the principle in the United States found on the island is beyond a doubt, for the 1867-68 the new birth of Canada through the writer has dug it out of the rock with his own hands, and many people have seen it in situ, but at that particular spot it, was thin and patchy, not an uncommon thing by any means; the best coal formation, and easily accounted for by geologists; and that hundreds of fossils in every way resembling the fossil flora of the carboniferous series have been found on the island is also beyond doubt. When all this evidence was fresh, we well recollect urging the proposed scheme strongly on the good old man, who was which the experiment has been attempted then the chief engineer of the colony, but has a complete failure—and this perhaps only though the spirit was willing, the flesh was weak, temporary as yet occurred. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in sojence generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese Characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English it is published, or to any of the following Agents | Post Office in China (except Hollow and Tienwords, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac- HONGKONG.....
